Beschreibung

Everywhere the same old tune. The layout is finished, the text is a long time coming. So that the layout doesn't stand bare in the room and feel small and empty, I step in: the dummy text.

Created precisely for this purpose, always in the shadow of my big brother »Lorem Ipsum«, I am happy every time you read a few lines. Because esse est percipi - being is being perceived.

And since you are already kind enough to accompany me for a few more sentences, I would like to take this opportunity not only to fill in the gaps, but also to point out something that also deserves to be noticed: namely web standards.

You see, web standards are the set of rules that websites are built on. There are rules for HTML, CSS, JavaScript or even XML; Words you may have heard from your developer before.

These standards ensure that everyone involved gets the most benefit from a website. For example, unlike previous websites, we no longer have to program two different websites for Internet Explorer and another browser. A page is sufficient, which - if set up correctly - works on different browsers on the net, but is just as good for printing or
